The Prince Regent had issued numerous cards of invitation for an entertainment at Carlton House, on the fifth, in honour of his Majesty's birth-day; but the change that had occurred caused the fete to be put off to the twelfth, and afterwards to the nineteenth; when, says the courtly journal, it took place under the happiest aspect of the heavens, for the night was most serene. Upon no previous occasion, and at no court in Europe, was ever the experiment made, to set down two thousand of the principal nobility and gentry of the kingdom to a regular supper. About nine o'clock, the whole fashionable world was in motion. Coaches and chariots collecting from all quarters, were seen converging to one FETE...
